

Name: _____

This is not a crossword puzzle really. It's a search of your Periodic Table of the Elements and table S.

Each box has its own number. You will fill in each box with a letter, which will spell out some words and acronyms, but mostly it's practice for you to look around the tables and become more familiar with the elements names and locations (metals vs nonmetals).

At the end, there are some clues to the "words" that this puzzle contains, but they are for fun, do the 52 box clues first. Each clue is relatively easy, don't sweat yet.

This is for a classwork grade, hand it in.
